

Easter Bilby's Friends
HONEY POSSUM'S
BUSH CAFÉ

Who am I?

I'm called a possum, but I'm not.
I'm cute and very small,
and while I might look like a mouse,
I'm not a mouse at all.
The food that's mentioned in my name
is not a thing I eat,
instead I lick the banksias –
their nectar's very sweet!

I am _____

I've long, soft ears, a pointed snout,
large feet and springy legs.
I really like delivering those shiny Easter eggs.
And while I'm not the only one
who works in egg supply,
I'm native to Australia
unlike that other guy.

Who am I?

I have a beak, and feathers too,
and wings with which to fly,
though I prefer to walk or run
than flap into the sky.
I build a nest of dirt and leaves –
it's large and on the ground.
Then when my chicks hatch from their eggs,
they dig out of the mound.

I am _____

I look quite like a kangaroo,
although I'm not as tall.
I have a stripe across each cheek –
The coloured fur upon my paw looks like a blackened glove.
And if you like cute animals,
I'm one that you will love.
